Farm notes: June (well soon!) broccoli and frisee?? Part of the crazy 2022 drill. Both are delicious despite the heat; our toddlers are eating straight frisee salad! The 105F last week is evident on the broccoli in the form of light green beads; I'm amazed it didn't cook it in the field! Please eat the broccoli greens, they are my favorite part. I like to slice the whole broccoli head, leaves, stem and head, lengthwise into quarters and sauté it briefly on high heat so the cut faces of the stems brown and the leaves cook down a bit but the heart is still crunchy. Same treatment on top of the final stage of pan-frying sausage or pork chops is even better.

Last Thursday we had yet another power outage for the upper Capay Valley though happily this one only lasted for just shy of 5 hrs. We live and farm not so far from the Bay and Sacramento but we are at the fringes of the power grid, cell service and internet access. When power goes down again and again, it reminds me of why we still pump more than half our water with diesel - relative reliability; yes, at least while there's diesel and not without many external costs. But as we, as a society, have discussions about large and medium sized diesel and propane generators, refrigeration, water delivery and backup power, remember that not all of California has the reliability that more densely populated areas have. These past 10 days, having three days with no capacity to irrigate in the face of high heat would have been disastrous for our crops. Likewise, having no backup power for homes and offices to continue functioning in the face of blackouts that can be as short as 5hrs or as long as 72hrs is both functionally paralyzing as well as dangerous for people when the temperatures are extreme. When the power goes down here, one of the first things we do at our local volunteer firehouse is fire up the backup diesel generator so that folks without power for heating, cooling or water have a place to go and so that if there is a fire we can pump water to keep the water tenders rolling to the fire.

Chard Quiche

<https://lillystable.com/food/recipe/chard-quiche>

Ingredients

- 1 pie crust, whole-wheat homemade or frozen
- 1 bunch chard, wash & shake dry
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 pinch black pepper
- 1 teaspoon olive oil
- 4 eggs
- 2 tablespoons milk, or water or cream

Preparation Instructions

Preheat the oven to 400.

Prick the pie crust all over and place in the oven for 8 minutes until it is lightly golden. If you are concerned about shrinking crust (it can happen!) line the crust with foil and fill with dry rice, beans, or even those pie weights. Meanwhile, thinly slice the stems of the chard. Next stack up the leaves, thinly slice and then roughly chop. Drizzle the olive oil around the pan over medium heat. Add the stems for a minute and then toss in the greens to wilt. Continue to saute and press until there is no visible liquid. Season with a pinch of the salt & pepper. Whip the eggs together with the milk/water/cream. Season with the remaining salt and pepper. Spread the greens into the center of the pie crust. Slowly pour the beaten eggs over the greens and press with the back of a spoon to evenly distribute the egg. Place in the oven for 25-35 minutes until the center feels firm to the touch and visibly cooked through.
